

THE ROLE OF TEACHERS

I am very unhappy with the role and concept of gurus, but teachers are different. First, we are all one another's teachers. Secondly, you need teaching- we all need teaching. What you need to find is within yourself but it's difficult to recognize, and to reach. How to find it? How to access it? How to grab hold of it?

I can't give you a reason for why in my most intense evolution I didn't have a single external teacher or a few external teachers myself, but all I can tell you is I wish I had! However, I learn constantly from others. I always look around to see who has something to offer me, and the people who come to me always have something to offer me.
